Two Well-established Books

Max Black, Professor of Philosophy, Cornell University

LANGUAGE AND PHILOSOPHY

Studies in Method

By* MAX BLACK

The essays that comprise this book examine the relevance of semantics to some philosophic problems. Professor Black critically reviews the literature in the field, in particular the linguistic theories of Russell, Tarski, Wittgenstein, Morris, Ogden and Richards, and Korzybski. Here is a book distinguished both in style and content.

"Keen and sound criticism employing arguments which might be used by a philosopher of any school – if he had the acumen to marshal them and the literary skill thus to present them."—Philosophical Review

274 PAGES, $3.50

PHILOSOPHICAL ANALYSIS

A Collection of Essays

Edited by* MAX BLACK

"In this valuable book Mr. Black has collected a number of previously unpublished essays by some of the ablest philosophers on both sides of the Atlantic. The contributors, we are told, were asked to provide examples of philosophical analysis and not argument about analysis."—Ethics

"The essays, some of them models of philosophical argument, show the influence of philosophers like Russell, Moore, Wittgenstein, and the logical empiricists. . . . Of high quality and well written."
